

a "prehomosexual boy" that is a boy who has had some premature sexual exposure, and it is never the boy's fault. Here Lush quotes Kinsey's perverse colleague, "Dr. C. A. Tripp," and his allegedly "exhaustive book, The Homosexual Matrix." Tripp has been a major defender of Kinsey's use of men to rape children, claiming on the Donahue show in 1990 that Kinsey used only "responsible pedophiles, they used stop watches to record their thing."

Fine, so Lush uses Tripp, a pedophile panderer, to tell mom that "males who have a high homosexual proclivity often come from a sexually precocious segment of the population" and mature "sooner." More bunk. The only proof we have is that boys are born heterosexual unless their normal development is interfered with in some manner.

Anyone concerned about abstinence and sexuality in general needs to read Kinsey, Crimes & Consequences (1998, 2000, 2003) (drjudithreisman.org). Certainly Lush and Vredevelt should do so before they revise their book for the eighth time. Good intentions are not adequate when one claims to have the credibility to tell mothers how to raise their boys to be men.

Actually, I recommend The Compleat Gentleman: The Modern Man's Guide to Chivalry by Brad Miner as an excellent blueprint for mom and dad to raise a boy to become a wonderful, inspirational man. A terrific, spell-binding read as well!!!
